Bible Reading 2021
Chart the Course
Old Testament
Week of November 14, 2021

Jeremiah is often called the weeping prophet. This week's readings will give ample evidence to that as not only he announces coming judgment and sufferings of Israel, he himself will suffer much. He is banned from the temple, accused of siding with Babylon and his writings are destroyed. He is imprisoned in the palace at Jerusalem. He is later beaten and imprisoned in a dungeon and kept there until Jerusalem eventually falls to Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon. His prayer in chapter 32 gives insight into one of God's great spokesmen, a man who suffered much for the sake of his disobedient countrymen but remained steady and true to the historic assignment God had given him years earlier. And God's promise to him personally (Jeremiah 1:17-19) is fulfilled time and time again as Jeremiah suffers but still survives, both death and the Babylonian captivity of the nation.

Don't miss a highlight chapter of Jeremiah this week, chapter 29. Verse 11 is a favorite Old Testament verse, often quoted by Christians or posted on plaques on church walls. Notice the context, however, of the promise -- exile! When Israel is at its lowest, God speaks up and promises a better future of hope and prosperity. He can do the same for you and I as well!
