Spiritual Disciplines Guide

Week of November 20, 2022

Last week we highlighted Lament Psalms. Many of David's psalms are dealing with tough circumstances where he questions God's presence with him and his intervention for him. This week, let's zero in on another genre of Hebrew poetry -- "Confession Psalms". There are not nearly as many confession psalms as there are lament psalms, but there are a few. The most famous of these comes up in this week's reading, Psalm 51. If you go there, you'll notice the heading gives the context for this psalm. You can read the story in 2 Samuel 11-12. The neat thing is that David not only responded in repentance to the prophet Nathan's rebuke, he wrote about his heart response in his journal.....and so we have Psalm 51 -- a psalm of repentance. Even the greatest of saints sin and need forgiveness. Pay close attention to how David thinks about his moral failure and what he determines to do as a result. We have an excellent example for us today in the face of temptation and sin. Follow David's pattern of open confession, sincere repentance and real restitution. Some other confession psalms of repentance to study along with number 51 are Psalm 32, Psalm 38 and Psalm 69. Each of these also give us insight into our own spiritual failures, true repentance and God's grace to forgive and restore us (1 John 1:9)
