

Friday, August 24: Read Matthew 14-15

Matthew 14 and 15 feature a duplicate miracle of Jesus, the feeding of a large crowd with scant resources. In chapter 14, it's 5000 men from fish and five loaves of bread. In chapter 15, it's 4000 men from seven loaves and fish. Neither number includes women or children present. What's the point of these two incidents? Jesus' concern for hungry people? Jesus' power to multiply the elements? Or God's willingness to provide for our needs when we turn to him for help? Jesus will refer back to both miracles when instructing his disciples about the hypocrisy of the Pharisees' teaching. He admonishes them not to forget what God has done in providing for them, especially as it relates to their present and yet future needs. We may need the same reminder today!

Monday, August 20 Read Matthew 8-9

After preaching the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus hits the ground running. The next several chapters of Matthew record numerous miracles accomplished by Jesus. In each case, take note of the need at hand. Who initiates the miracle, Jesus or the needy person? What kind of belief or faith is present when Jesus heals? Where are the disciples during the miracle and how do the onlookers or the crowd respond? Matthew 9:35-36 pretty well summarizes Jesus' heart for the needy. Do you likewise see lost people like sheep without a shepherd? Who could you approach today with the intention of introducing them to Jesus, the good shepherd?

Notes:

Pray for: ---My relationship with God

---My life roles

---My personal needs/weak areas

---My goals and objectives.

Tuesday, August 21: Read Matthew 10-11

Matthew records the first missions trip of the disciples almost like a controlled experiment. Jesus sends them out two by two, telling them where to go and where not to go, what to say and what to do. The second half of the chapter includes both warnings and encouragements for all who would dare step out to reach others in Jesus' name. His words ring true for us as well today.

Next, news of John's imprisonment and ensuing doubts lead Jesus to further reveal who he is as well as who John the Baptist was and the role he played in presenting Christ to Israel. Matthew 11:28-30 are words of promise for you today!

Pray for family and friends by name.

Wednesday August 22: Read Matthew 12

Matthew 12 records several run-ins with the Pharisees who challenge Jesus' authority, especially as it relates to his "working" (doing miracles) on the Sabbath. Pay close attention to Jesus' responses to them because in them he often reveals hints as to his true identity. His declaration as "Lord of the Sabbath" sets the stage for opposition to his actions and claims. Jesus warns them of the fatal sin of blaspheming the Spirit, an admonition that has troubled Christians over the centuries. Can a Christian commit the unpardonable sin? Or, is that precisely the sin of rejecting Christ for which there is no redemption? Or, was the blasphemy of the Spirit a generational sin committed solely by the people of Jesus' day who had him physically present, speaking , by the Holy Spirit<sup>1</sup> directly to that generation of Jews? No more explanation is given in the New Testament.

Thursday, August 23: Read Matthew 13

Chapter 13 of Matthew contains a plethora of parables where Jesus uses figurative language, stories of familiar things to explain to the crowds something unfamiliar, namely the mysterious working of God in his kingdom. He secretly dispels the answers to his spiritual riddles to his disciples, but codes his language when speaking publicly (verse 11). He uses metaphors of farming, seeds, treasures, pearl merchants and fishing to explain in human analogies how God is working on earth. Even his disciples struggle to grasp his instruction. We do as well today as we re-read Jesus' words and wrestle with how the "kingdom of heaven" could operate even here on earth.
