Old Testament
Week of May 30, 2021

We have come to the period of time known as the Kingdom Years of Israel. 1-2 Kings records the history of Israel, starting with Solomon, followed by the division of the northern and southern kingdoms. The northern kingdom is called "Israel" and its capital is Samaria. The southern kingdom is called "Judah" and its capital city is Jerusalem. The northern kingdom is ruled by a succession of 19 kings over a period of about 200 years, beginning with Jeroboam just after Solomon's time. The southern kingdom begins with Solomon's son, Rehoboam and lasts some 350 years, also consisting of 19 different kings. About half are good kings. All of the kings of the northern kingdom were considered evil kings. The northern kingdom is taken into exile by Assyria in 2 Kings 17. The southern kingdom goes into exile to Babylon in 2 Kings 25. The primary sins of both kingdoms was blatant disobedience to God and idolatry. 1 Kings begins with the death of David and the succession of Solomon. God uses Solomon to establish the kingdom in peace, to build the temple to fortify Jerusalem, and to centralize worship for all Israel in the temple at Jerusalem. His death sets the stage for the divided kingdom years.
