New Testament

Week of April 3, 2022

Having finished the gospel of Matthew, let's pick up with the gospel of Mark for the next two weeks. Much of the material in Matthew will be repeated in Mark's gospel. But what you'll notice in Mark is that he zeroes in more on the actions of Christ than the teachings of Christ. Both are present, but Mark is a book of action. He goes from one event to the next with very little narrative. He presents Jesus as the great and powerful servant of the Lord who has come to accomplish God's purposes on earth. Mark wrote his gospel specifically to appeal to the Roman world of his day, the world beyond Israel. The gospel gives no prologue to Jesus' life. It starts right out introducing John the Baptist and goes immediately into Jesus' baptism, his temptation and his early ministry in Galilee. Like a movie producer, Mark's cue could easily be "Ready, set, action"! Get in on the action as you read Mark's account of Jesus' life in the next two weeks.
