Spiritual Disciplines Guide

Week of February 18, 2024

In our February series, “The Faith Factor”, we’ve considered the Principle of Faith and the Premise of Faith. This week, let’s review some of God’s promises made to the faithful. God is a God of promise. He makes promises to people in regards to the future. He promises to do things, good things, for them if they will simply trust him and obey his instructions. The Old Testament is full of examples of times that God promised his faithful followers his divine help and guidance. This week we’ll look at examples of this with Noah, Abraham, Joshua, David and the exiles in Babylon. In each account, notice the negative circumstances they find themselves in, note what God promises to do and what their part or responsibility is. As always, God calls people, then and now, to trust him and follow his lead. When they do, good things happen!

For no matter how many promises God has made, they are “yes” in Christ. And so through him the “Amen” is spoken by us to the glory of God. (2 Corinthians 1:20)
